Owner's Corner

The Power of Two Simple Words

One of the best parts of my job is getting to read what clients say about the ISI staff members who handle their projects.

I heard just the other day from a client about Adam Post, an ISI installer, and his project team. She wrote, "Adam said goodbye this morning and thanked me!

Not sure why he thanked me! He and the guys were great and the area looks amazing!"

At one time, Thank You was heard quite often. The words express gratitude for another person's thoughtfulness, generosity, kind words or assistance. They're simple words but they have the power to promote respect, build bridges, cement relationships and change the course of careers and even lives.

May it never be said that the practice of saying Thank You became extinct during ISI's watch. Each of us should appreciate what we have, especially here at ISI, and we should make others aware of that appreciation every day. Each person in every client and vendor organization we work with should know that we value their relationships with us and with ISI. They should know it because they hear us unflinchingly say Thank You. With my thanks for all you do, I wish you good health and much success in 2013!

Welcoming Lance Seaton

ISI is pleased to welcome Lance Seaton to the ISI Sales Team. Lance began his ISI career in mid-December, amidst the holiday rush and right on the heels of our move to Itasca.

Lance has more than 15 years of experience supporting large corporate accounts. Prior to joining ISI, he worked at a local relocation firm and he has established business relationships with staff members at one of our client dealerships.

Known for great organizational skills and customer service, Lance is a great asset to our Sales Team. He has already gotten familiar with many of our clients and their job sites and has been making the rounds with Sales Team colleagues to meet as many people as possible.

Lance and his wife, Flora, live in Chicago and enjoy many of the activities the city has to offer. We look forward to his contributions to ISI's future.

Midwest Honors Duncan and Stuba As Outstanding Business Partners

ISI has a longstanding relationship with Midwest Office Interiors, a Chicagoland All-steel dealership based in Woodridge, Illinois.

Foremen John Duncan and Norm Stuba have supervised the majority of our Midwest jobs in recent years. The staff members at Eddie Logan was in town right before Christmas to visit his dear friends Bud and Shirley and get a look at ISI's new headquarters. Everyone said how nice it was to see him and hear his voice in the office. Ed was happy to see everyone and was quite impressed with the new facility. "This is really terrific," Ed commented. We still miss you, Ed, but we're glad to hear you're enjoying retirement.

ISI's Midwest account manager, Tom Robbins, joined the celebration as John Duncan (left) and Norm Stuba each received the 2012 Outstanding Business Partner award from Joe Gollwitzer, Midwest's president.

Midwest have come to appreciate John's and Norm's easygoing, dependable natures and vast product knowledge. Their appreciation took the form of dual awards for 2012 Outstanding Business Partner, which were presented during a beautiful pre-Christmas luncheon held at the Midwest office.

"They can handle any situation that arises and always make us look good by their professionalism," said Midwest's founder and president, Joe Gollwitzer. "That's why we would like to show our appreciation by presenting each of them with this award."

"Installation Specialists Inc., over the many years, has never failed to assist me in the many endeavors of "please", "thank you" requests. This was a donation of time and efforts to make it work in a short period of time. The entire organization was so pleased, the foundation of investors, the teachers, principal, maintenance staff could not believe that this experimental demo classroom was implemented and completed in 10 working days.

The team that you sent to the school this week to Wally Meyer and Sharon McDonough were among the many members of the IC team who enjoyed the Employee Holiday Party.

The Construction Scene

The Interior Construction field crew is keeping up with the pace on the Fort Sheridan project. The job is on track for both budget and schedule. With Phase 2 nearing completion, the team will be starting work on Phase 3 in the next two to three weeks.

Several small interior jobs have completed, including work for Itasca Construction, a local transport company (where an Installation Specialists team performed the furniture installation), and corporate bank offices.

We will soon be ramping up to do framing, drywall and acoustical ceilings for partial renovations of a retail space, a building lobby and a bank branch.

Thanks to all of our client general contractor firms for choosing ISI Interior Construction.

ISI Employee Holiday Party Is a Hit

Given the number of messages Matt has received and the kind words they contain, ISI's pre-Christmas Holiday Party was a terrific success. Using our new warehouse/office facility as the party venue made the event all the more special.

People deserving of special thanks for their outstanding contributions to the planning and preparation are Karen Power, Donna Moy, Mark Sprezel, Kelli Conway and Jim Sheridan. Thanks as well to Erik Wyman, Al Herrmann and many others who conducted facility tours.

The Stumper

How many proposals did the ISI Team submit in 2012?

$25 to first person who submits correct answer. Submit by 1/18/2013 to kelli@isi-install.com. Please put "January Stumper" in the subject line.

December winner: Ann Marie Balderas, Desks (Chicago dealer). December answer: People in The Philippines attend church for 9 days prior to Christmas. It started in 1587, when the crowds at Mass on the days before Christmas were overflowing from the church. The prior of the San Agustin Acolman Convent, on the island of Luzon, asked the Pope's permission to hold the services outdoors. The request was granted and Simbang Gabi became a Filipino spiritual tradition of Mass on each of the nine days before Christmas.

Our thanks to Myra Valencia for providing the December Stumper.

We'll use it for orientation and education, for dialogs with followers and for sharing ISI news and information into LinkedIn, Facebook and other social media sites. This website is and will always be a work in progress, as we use it to communicate the dynamic ISI brand. We hope you'll explore, enjoy and give us your suggestions. The Construction Scene

ISI Interior Construction started the first quarter with a good amount of business. Ryan Consulting awarded a contract for renovations to the vestibule and restrooms of a small historic building. We look forward to forging a great business relationship through this first opportunity to work with the Ryan Consulting team. Another new client has hired our painting crew for their offices on Riverside Drive. Our friends at St. Thomas Church experienced some water damage from roof leaks; they have asked our team to perform the wall repairs.

Several other IC projects for various general contractors are underway. Our framers, drywallers, painters and ceiling installers are working at a fast pace to meet required completion dates. All the projects are going well and proceeding on schedule.

Our Fort Sheridan project is in its final phase. The general contractor/architect is pleased with the progress being made by ISI Interior Construction and the other subcontractors.

Please continue to send all bid documents to Sharon McDonough. Sharon's email is smcdonough@isi-construction.com. Thank you for your business.

ISI Supports Chicago Public Schools Teacher Aid Program

ISI installers Albert Garcia, Albert Gutierrez and Ed Kalupski (serving as foreman) recently built task chairs under a program called A Day Made Better, which is run by OfficeMax® and AdoptAClassroom.org to end the need for teacher-funded classrooms. ISI donated the labor for the chair assembly effort.

The chairs were part of a $100,000 total donation in classroom supplies presented by OfficeMax and its program partners on January 31 at a South Side elementary school.

"Thank you for donating the labor for assembly of the chairs. The event was this morning and all the teachers were extremely excited about their gifts and for being recognized," said Kevin Beardsley on behalf of OfficeMax in a January 31 email to Matt Sprenzel. OfficeMax is based in Chicagoland.
